WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—For upper and lower Michigan: Fair, warmer in upper Michigan and western portion of lower Michigan and warmer in eastern portion of lower Michigan by Wednesday morning, southwest winds.

TODAY'S MEETINGS.

To attempt to forecast the outcome of today's convention would be akin to predicting the result of the coming election by legislative districts. The nominee, whichever of the distinguished jurists in the field shall be chosen, will be a representative man, a loyal republican and a sure winner.

The day will be a memorable one in the annals of the party, for there are to be three distinct and decisive rallies for and in the interest of republican success.

In the morning the State League of Republican clubs will meet in Harrison hall to hear the reports of officers and to elect successors to the present efficient incumbents. The retiring president announces his determination not to accept another term, but it is probable that the delegates will hold that it is a bad plan "to swap horses in the middle of the stream" and will demand that at a sacrifice he shall continue in the office whose duties he has discharged with such signal ability.

In the afternoon the state convention will be held. Its work will consist of the nomination for justice of the supreme court and for secretary of state. The delegates will be edified with oratory of the highest class delivered on the floor of the convention. In the evening the grand final rally will be held when the Hon. J. S. Fessett of New York and the most illustrious of the many of Michigan's favorite sons will speak. It will be a day of days—crowded with enthusiasm from morning until night.

CLEVELAND'S LETTER.

Mr. Cleveland's message is a well written document. It constitutes a moderately strong plea in support of a hopelessly weak argument. The careful adjustment of words and the skillfully woven picture-pieces amply testify that he has not devoted all his time at Buzzard's Bay to writing letters of "in-sin-glar" nor in angling for bluefish.

The message is distinctly Clevelandesque. It abounds in ponderous sentences, securely riveted together in a sturdy whole, but the entire superstructure is built on a foundation of sand. Like all his late papers, it is strongly individualized. Anybody familiar with his contributions to state literature will recognize the self-sufficient tone of the author in this.

Mr. Cleveland makes no attempt to qualify the tariff plank of the Chicago convention. He says that "protection is robbery" but he does it by circumlocution without sacrifice of strength. He proceeds to argue from abstract theory to actual practice and experience. His confession that free trade is impossible is not unexpected, nor his insistence on the tendency of the intelligent workman to regard with suspicion the ulterior motives of his patrons surprising. He insists with some vehemence that protection is robbery, but that free trade is not free trade.

ROUSSEAU VS. MUD.

Upon the invitation of the democrats the Republicans gladly agreed that this should be a campaign of education, and the republican newspapers, true to the promise of the party, have observed the agreement in spirit and letter, so far as the regular candidates of the opposition are concerned.

accepted as binding by tacit consent, and can result only in bringing the offending organs into merited contempt with the fair-minded of all parties.

The issues are too sharply defined and too far-reaching to justify any digression of this kind. The republican appeal to the discriminating intelligence of the masses in the settlement of the tariff controversy. Our friends, the enemy, are committed to a like policy by the utterances of Cleveland, Stevenson and the leaders of the party. In a contest of reason, a campaign of education, there is no room for personal animadversions.

The personal reputation of the democratic nominees, from president of the United States down to sheriff of Kent county, are not so spotless as that the partisan organs may attack the nominees of the republicans with impunity, under the delusion that no resort in kind can be made. There are acres of mud—deep, black, damning mud—that can be scooped up and hurled at every one of the democratic nominees. The republicans have no desire to avail themselves of this kind of material.

WE CAN STAND IT.

At a special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United Kingdom, held September 20 at Newport, Monmouthshire, President Rollin said in his opening address, as called to the press here, "that he lamented the existing depression of trade, and especially the fact that there were no signs of improvement. He attributed the lack of confidence partly to the suspension of the Baring's, and partly also to hostile tariffs. He added that wages had increased in the United States on an average one per cent, but erroneously stated that the cost of living had increased. It is probable that in making his last statement President Rollin was deceived by the prejudiced reports emanating from free trade bureaus of information, for if he had had the report of the subcommittee of the senate committee on finance before him he would have been able to state the fact that while wages have increased the cost of living has not increased but on the contrary decreased.

His speech is significant, in that it brings into prominence the condition of things persistently pictured by the protectionists. With free trade in force in its most liberal form, there is a marked depression in trade. The factories and workshops of England are idle, because the American market is protected from an avalanche of pauper produced products. While the factories and workshops of England are idle those of this country are in active operation. To multiply words is but to obscure the picture. Free America free trade and the shops of England will rebound with industry. Our "hostile" tariff shuts up their shops and opens ours. No good American will be in favor of changing present conditions, even though the democrats demand that it shall be done. We can stand our present prosperity, such as the democrats even concede it to be, very well—very well, indeed.

MR. CLEVELAND SAYS: "The protection of the people in the exclusive use and enjoyment of their property and earnings conceded constitutes the special purpose and mission of our free government." This reads very much like a defense of protection, but his subsequent expressions qualify and explain it to mean that "the exclusive use and enjoyment of their property and earnings" will be best vouchsafed by a tariff for revenue only under which the foreign manufacturers may enter and appropriate our market.

Groves is afraid that patriotism will be "strangled" by protection. Grover's solicitude, lest patriotism shall be choked by prosperity, is very pathetic. Free trade is so essentially English that it couldn't "strangle" American patriotism but it would strangle American workingmen.

There can be no question but that the county jail is in need of enlargement and modern appliances. The decision of the building committee to recommend such improvements at the October session of the board of supervisors will meet general approval.

Every member of a republican club and every other republican should make it a point to be present at the state league meeting this morning. And the women too, bless their hearts, should turn out en masse.

That ultra literary sheet, The London Spectator, has discovered that Whittier was not a poet. Judging by England's present standard of poetry, it is to be hoped that he wasn't.

Any person that fails to hear the speech of the Hon. J. S. Fessett tonight will miss one of the ablest and most comprehensive political addresses ever delivered in the city.

TAMMANY now modestly claims that Cleveland will carry New York by 15,000 majority. Tammany prophecies are always elusive or delusive. In this case it is both.

Last evening's brilliant reception given by Miss Waters in honor of two society young persons about to be married was an innovation in high society circles.

Deacon, who recently killed Abelle in Mrs. Deacon's bedroom, will enter police. Mississippi would be a good state for him to begin in.

The appointment of a press committee, through which to make its proceedings public, the Central Labor union has taken no action.

It is practically settled that Mr. Jochim will be nominated for secretary of state.

LIKE A FAIRY DELL

The House of Miss Waters
 Ablaze With Light

FOR A NIGHT O' ROYAL FAVORS

Beautiful and Brilliant German Given in Honor of the Cady-Barnhart Nuptials.

Oakhurst, the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Waters, presented an exquisite scene last evening, the occasion being a "German" given by Miss Waters in honor of the Cady-Barnhart wedding party. The parlors were canvassed, and Prof. Wellenstein's orchestra played enlivening dance music. All of the figures were pretty and some were entirely new, an exceedingly novel one being the man in the moon figure. The front parlor where the dancers were was darkened, the gentlemen being masked. The ladies entered the room and partners were selected while the orchestra played the song, "Ask of the Man in the Moon." The only light provided came from the man in the moon, his very own self suspended in the doorway. A pretty figure was the Lady or the Tiger. Two doors opened into a hall of pink were selected by two gentlemen. When the lady appeared in one doorway the tiger, painted on a sliding panel, appeared in the other. The Washburn figure was unique, the gentleman getting the larger piece winning the lady.

Other Pretty Pieces.
 Then there was the lower girl figure where a dainty maiden sat upon a cushion in the center of the room while all the others danced around her and belted her with flowers. An amusing figure was the "potato" where each gentleman was required to take an enormous potato from the floor by passing a knife under it. Much merriment was caused by the struggles of the gentlemen to get the potato under the foot of the lady. Some time before exiting their right to dance. In the fan figure three girls stood behind a screen hiding their faces with big pink fans. They were discovered and led to the dance. An exceedingly interesting figure was the Cinderella which began by every lady taking off one slipper and casting it into a pink lined basket. Then the gentlemen each secured a slipper and fitted it upon a little foot whose mate was the other slipper and danced with the fair one. The Arch figure danced with pretty pink arches hung with fine lines of glittering silver. A drop-a-nickel-in-the-slot machine brought out chocolate which was given to the ladies. Fish Pond figure contained a practical joke for each one. Mr. Barnhart drawing a candy bride and Miss Cady bringing up an umbrella filled with rice.

Beautiful Favors.
 The favors were exceedingly pretty. There were pictures of prominent actors and actresses, the cards being tied with narrow pink ribbon. Favorite pictures being Mary Anderson, Lillian Russell, Marie Tempest, Agnes Huntington, Richard Mansfield, John Drew, Sothern, the Kendalls and others. For one figure there were tiny favors of silver-mounted enameled cups, a white one being given to Miss Cady. For the gentlemen there were silver necktie holders and another set of favors consisted of pansy pins for the gentlemen and orange blossom pins for the ladies.

Refreshments were served about 11 o'clock and the dining room looked like a bit of fairyland. The table was set in the form of an immense heart, a line of smiles following the shape. Within the similar was a dense plot of pink roses—Catharine Mermets—completely covering the snowy linen. A pink shaded candelabra stood in the center and the chandeliers above bore pink tinted globes. The favors were dainty pink hearts painted in water colors with a cupid on each one. All the refreshments, the little cakes, the patties, the ice cream were in heart shape. In the little cakes were hidden a ring, a thimble and a sixpence to designate the next bride, the old maid and the lucky one. Each one was discovered amid shrieks.

A Score of Guests.

Twenty guests sat down at the table the hostess sitting at the apex of the heart. Next her at the prospective bride and groom, Miss Gertrude Cady and Mr. Roy Barnhart. Then the maid of honor, Miss Helen Shepard and the six bridesmaids Miss Maud Witmer, Miss Becher of Pennsylvania, Miss Hamilton of Penn Yan, N. Y., Miss Louise Barnhart, Miss White of Detroit, and Miss Cummings of Toledo, O. Then the groom's best man, Mr. James Crosby, and Messrs. Richard Smith, Marshall, Berns, Cobb, Louis Cady, A. D. Rathbone, Roger Graywood, Stewart White and John McQueen. At another table sat Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Waters, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cassard of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. William Barnhart, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Witmer, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Gresson and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis of Iowa, who are cousins of Miss Cady.

The costumes were exceedingly beautiful. Mrs. Waters wore a black gown with light green satin; Mrs. Cassard wore pale blue velvet and black satin, and Miss Waters wore pink satin. The festivities were prolonged to a late hour and were participated in with delight.

CENTRAL LABOR UNION.

Report of Last Night's Regular Meeting—Press Committee Appointed.

The Central Labor Union meeting held last night was called to order by Vice President Fitzpatrick, who, owing to the illness of his sister in Chicago, was obliged to leave immediately after that city, and called William F. Ten to the chair, who presided during the session. The proceedings of last meeting were read and approved. New delegates from the painters and decorators, electricians, mill workers, and others were elected and the members obligated. Several bills and accounts were ordered paid. A letter of thanks was read from the Homestead workers, thanking the various unions of Grand Rapids most heartily for their generous donations. A communication from the K. of L. was referred to the Typographical and Pressmen's union in regard to some New York publications.

The executive committee will hold an open meeting at Germania hall on Friday evening, October 2, at which Messrs. McFarlane and this will speak, and an invitation is extended to the public.

The cigar makers reported on eight a union made clear without the union label and said a good many of the manufacturers were trying to avoid the paying of labels by passing them on to their shippers. The holders reported a boycott on the Red Cross in particular and to the union men to see that all stores bear the label before purchasing. The bakers reported the Fleischman yeast still on the boycotted list and the Fermentum Co. K. Delapoint unions were requested to withhold patronage as convenient. Mr. Arson of the barbers was unanimously chosen sergeant-at-arms and Jacob Tanselaar, W. H. Roche and H. C. Cramer a press committee to report such matters as might interest the unions and public for the daily papers.

QUARRELED AND DIED.
 Tragedy Follows a Love Affair Between an Actress and an English Surgeon.

LOSAN, Sept. 26.—Considerable of a sensation has been caused here by the mysterious death of an ex-actress known as Ruby Russell, a beautiful girl who appeared at the Lyric and Drury Lane theaters. Her real name was Marianne Sharpe. For some time she has not been seen on the stage, and it was an open secret that she was living with Woodburn Heron, an army doctor who was a physician at the Lyric. He had been ordered to Gambia, and when he went he took the girl with him. They returned to London on Sept. 3. Tuesday last, Miss Sharpe was suddenly taken sick when she was alone with Dr. Heron. A physician called and pronounced her could do nothing for her. A short time after she was taken sick she became unconscious and remained so until she died. There was absolutely nothing to show the cause of death. An inquest was held on Saturday at which Dr. Heron testified that he and Miss Sharpe had had a quarrel Tuesday afternoon and that she had threatened to kill herself. He thought she might have taken poison. On Saturday Dr. Heron took a room in a hotel on Craven street, Strand. Yesterday he did not appear and as the door of the room was locked a policeman was summoned to break it open. Inside the room Dr. Heron was found lying in a pool of blood, with a terrible gash in his throat. Evidence was also presented that he had taken a quantity of poison sufficient to kill him without the wound in his throat. At the coroner's inquest on the body of the dead girl, Dr. Heron stated that he was a widower, adding that his wife had died in Jamaica in 1891. He admitted that an inquest had been held upon the body of his wife.

Blood marks in the room show that Dr. Heron first cut his throat, while standing in front of a mirror. Finding that the gash was not deep enough to cause death he stretched himself on the floor. He previously arranged a vessel to catch the blood and placed a pillow so as to elevate his head enough to let the blood flow into the vessel. When these arrangements were completed and he had lain down he again cut his throat, this time severing the windpipe and jugular vein. He had scribbled with a penknife a newspaper, evidently while dying, some lines protesting his love for Miss Sharpe, and expressing the hope that he would soon meet her again.

FATAL RAILWAY ACCIDENT.
 Lake Shore Suburban Smashes a Hand Car, Killing William Fredericks.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—The Lake Shore suburban train for Chicago, passing Eightieth street at 7:30 o'clock, struck a hand car hurled the car into the air and instantly killing William Fredericks, a section hand. Fred Fredericks, the car were Carl Decker and Theodore Talepi, who were thrown a distance of twenty feet, but escaped serious injury. Fredericks struck a projecting switch as he was thrown and his head was torn from his body. At Eightieth street they were laughing and joking with some train hands on a freight train on the adjoining track and failed to notice the approach of the passenger. The engineer supposed that the track hands would pursue their usual course and at the last moment leave the car and lift it from the track to allow his train to pass. Consequently he paid little attention to them until he was close upon them. Then he blew his whistle, but the section hands did not appear to hear it and it was too late to stop the train.

Volunteers for Africa.
 NASHVILLE, Sept. 26.—Some days ago Prince Monolui, who was attending school here, was called to rule over the Vey nation in Africa, his father, King Monolui, having been killed in a war. Last night the prince delivered a lecture here and he didn't care about going back to the Vey nation alone, so the people here were urged to go and live on herbs and roots. He was astonished when five persons offered their services to go back with him to learn religion and otherwise civilize the people. The party will leave at once.

Medical Centenary.
 HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 26.—Only hall, this city, was the scene of a distinguished gathering of members of the medical profession today. The occasion was the one hundredth anniversary of the Hartford County Medical Association, founded September 26, 1792.

The gathering also included a social program in literary and social nature. There were presented two plays, 34 years old, the only living witness of the first surgical operation performed in the world with the aid of anesthesia.

DID NOT DO MUCH

The Council Limits Itself to Important Business, AS A TOKEN OF ITS SYMPATHY

For Their Honored President Who Mourns the Death of His Beloved Wife.

Mayor Stuart presided at the meeting of the common council last evening. All the members except Aldermen Ball, Dunton and Glidden were present. The session was short on account of the death of the wife of the Hon. O. A. Ball, president of the council.

At the opening of the session Mayor Stuart said: "Before beginning the business of the evening it becomes my painful duty to mention the sad affliction that has fallen on a member of this body; I refer to the death of the estimable wife of the Hon. O. A. Ball."

Alderman Couger moved for a suspension of the order of business for the presentation of resolutions on the death of the wife of Alderman Ball.

The following resolutions were then adopted: WHEREAS, This council learns with profound sorrow of the death of the estimable wife of the Hon. O. A. Ball, president of this body, who departed this world Sunday, Sept. 26, therefore, Resolved, That the common council of the city of Grand Rapids extend to the Hon. O. A. Ball its condolence and sincere sympathy in this hour of sorrow and bereavement; and to further Resolved, That this council in session tonight, transact only such business as demands immediate action, and then as a further token of our esteem and concern, we do adjourn. And be it further Resolved, That the members of the council meet at the city hall at 9 a. m. tomorrow to attend the funeral of Mrs. Ball in a body.

The Proceedings.
 Necessary business was then called and the Brussels Carpet Sweeper company and Joseph Louis Iron Works, property owners on Erie street, complained of the dangerous condition of the street. They desire to have a brick arch put over the canal. They desire to stand two-thirds of the expense and the city the other third. Referred to the committee on streets and the aldermen of the ward.

The street railway company presented a communication stating that their attention had been called to the proposed amendment to section four in an ordinance relating to the granting of permission to the Valley City Street & Cable Railway company of Grand Rapids to construct and maintain a street railway in the city of Grand Rapids. The company deny the authority of the council to amend the ordinance without asking their permission, and notify the council that they will refuse to accept such amendment. Referred to the committee on ordinance and city affairs.

From the telephone company, asking permission to place poles on Ethel avenue. Referred to fire marshal. From residents of the west side, asking that locomotives switching in the yards be required to stop ringing of bells during the night. Referred to the aldermen of the Eighth and Ninth wards.

From the democratic county committee, asking permission to suspend a banner across Lynden street. Granted. The assessor's report, allowing bills, etc., to the amount of $17,577.88, was adopted.

M. H. Surrick notified the council that the interest on the water works bonds, first series, amounting to $10,000, a due, and asked that the clerk and comptroller draw a warrant for same. Granted.

The special committee to whom was referred the appeal from the assessment roll of Oakland avenue reported in favor of making certain alterations in the assessment roll. There had been a change made in the original roll and Alderman Stein moved that further consideration be postponed one week. Carried.

The assessment roll for Pleasant street was accepted and further consideration was postponed one week. Pursuant to resolution previously adopted all other business was deferred and the council adjourned to meet Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

EUROPE'S CHOLERA RECORD.
 Commercial Traveler Found Suffering With the Plague in a Hotel.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 26.—A commercial traveler was found to be suffering with cholera in one of the hotels at the Hague today. He was removed to a hospital and disinfectant and isolated. St. Petersburg, Sept. 26.—There were seventeen new cases of cholera in the city on Sunday and ten deaths. Haver, Sept. 26.—There were five deaths from cholera on Sunday, according to the official reports, and four new cases.

HAMBURG, Sept. 26.—The official reports state that there were only twenty new cases and thirty-one deaths from cholera in Hamburg Sunday. The official reports also state that up to September 24 the number of cholera cases in Hamburg was 17,107, and the number of deaths was 7,339.

VERONA, Sept. 26.—Cholera is said to be spreading in Lombardy and especially in the district of Carpi.

LONDON'S MYSTERIOUS TRAGEDY.
 Dr. Heron's Suicide Follows the Death of an Actress by Poison.

London, Sept. 26.—Dr. Woodburn Heron, a well-known physician, committed suicide yesterday under mysterious circumstances. Dr. Heron was the lover of Marione Sharpe, a favorite actress of the theatre and known as the stage star Ruby Russell. The death of Miss Sharpe under circumstances pointing to a possible murder has caused a sensation, which is now intensified by the suicide of her lover. Dr. Heron was called as witness at the inquest on Saturday, and it was then apparent that he was under severe mental strain, which was attributed by some to his grief for Ruby. On Sunday he was in a bedroom in a hotel at Craven street and the strand, and there was

WILL ADD A WING

The Board of Supervisors is Making Plans TO REMODEL THE COUNTY JAIL

The Committee on Buildings Has Decided That It Is Unhealthful and Not Suitably Equipped.

It is quite probable that the question of remodeling the county jail will come up for consideration at the October session of the board of supervisors which convenes one week from next Monday. The committee on buildings visited the jail yesterday and the members were of the unanimous opinion that the county jail is a disgrace to the county. It was built without the slightest idea that such a thing as good plumbing was necessary, or that means for providing a change of air should enter into the construction of a jail. One has but to open the doors into the outer corridor to realize that something is lacking in the makeup of the building. The only means by which air may enter the building is through the windows. In cold weather it is too cold to open the windows without endangering the health of the inmates. Another feature of the many in which this building is defective is in lack of a bath tub suitable to cleanse the epidemic of the prisoners. The closets are frequently stopped owing to defects in the piping and the result is the air within the jail is stifling.

Unhealthful Cell Rooms.
 The cell rooms are frequently washed and scrubbed, but the only means of allowing the water to pass off is by sweeping it down the stairs from one floor to the other. The result is the air is left damp and unhealthful. The provisions made for the accommodation of women and young boys are not what they should be. At present they are placed in rooms over the sheriff's apartments where they cannot properly be separated.

The committee decided that something ought to be done at the coming meeting of the board. It is hoped that the members of the board will be in favor of improving the building, in which case the question of expense will be put to a vote of the people this fall so that the work may be done next summer. The idea of all the members of the committee was that a wing should be built on the west side of the jail and the whole interior of the present building be remodeled. It is designed to prepare bath tubs, to improve the plumbing, to make the building higher between joints and to provide for good ventilation. An architect will look over the proposed changes in a few days and will prepare an estimate of the cost.

Anxious to Meet the Strikers.
 St. Louis, Sept. 26.—It has been arranged that the telegrapher's committee shall meet Assistant General Manager George W. Smith tomorrow and submit their grievances. Mr. Smith said that he is anxious to meet the men on a friendly basis, and that there is no danger of a strike unless the men are foolishly unreasonable.

Murderous Riots Arrested.
 CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 26.—Moore, the man shot by Dunning in the American Protective association riot here last night, is pronounced out of danger by the physicians. The bullet passed through his right lung. Nolan, the policeman whose throat was slashed, is about. T. A. Douglas, a constable, is charged with the shooting of Moore and is out on $1,000 bail. Lecturer Lyons secured $1,000 bail. He is held on charges of assaulting Nolan and a boy. M. D. McDonald, a Union Pacific conductor, gave bail to answer the charge of cutting Nolan.

Respect for Pat Gilmore.
 NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—At a meeting of the Musical union today it was ordered that the entire union should be at the depot at 7 a. m. tomorrow and escort the remains of P. S. Gilmore to his late residence. It was decided that the union should play as a funeral march a composition of Gilmore's entitled "Death at the Door" and the famous "Lost Chord" of Sir Arthur Sullivan, which was one of Gilmore's favorite pieces. Resolutions of respect for their late comrade were passed by the union.

Should have some attention paid him in the way of fitting dress and the collar is the principal thing to look after, as a neat collar will make a two dollar mongrel hold his head as high as a five hundred dollar thoroughbred. There is hardly a style of collar known to the world but that we have. Small ones for diminutive specimens; medium size for ordinary canines; large size for the giant dogs. We have them in nickel, steel and all kinds of leather. Also dog whips, dog leaders, dog muzzles, dog harnesses, dog food, dog medicine, dog calls. Everything that will serve to make your dog feel well, act well, look well and be well, you will find in our Sporting Goods Department.
